

Today's job market and that of yesteryear are two completely indistinguishable environments. So much has changed. For one, there is no such thing as job security anymore. Gone are the old covenant between employer and employees. Many companies, even those with a long history of taking care of their employees even through hard times, have begun letting valued employees go. In today's global economy, companies no longer feel compelled to take care of loyal employees. Job security is a relic of the past or is it? Why are some people seemingly recession-proof while other more skilled individuals around them are being laid off? Many of these same people are also the ones who find lucrative, highly sought-after jobs as well? While many comfort themselves by saying that those individuals are just different, more fortunate, etc., don't fool yourself into believing such lies. Fortune presents itself to everyone. It is only those who seize it with dare and know-how that benefit from its reward. These individuals who seemingly are recession-proof and always find lucrative jobs have simply consciously or unconsciously unlocked the secrets to finding and securing jobs. Here in this book the secret to their success and more are revealed. Everyone starts off in life knowing nothing, but once we learned something, we can apply it and reap its rewards. Isn't it time for you to reap the reward of a secure and prosperous career?
