

An erotic, yet horrifying, vampire novel sure to stimulate all of your senses. On Christmas Eve, the Noel family receives a mysterious knock at the door and the strangest gift is left in the embankment of their front lawn. Stuck in the snow at the end of the driveway, they find a coffin decorated with a big red bow and a note that simply reads "Merry Christmas." Inside the coffin is an unconscious man, bound in chains, with a red and white Santa mask over his head. Being the good Christians that they are, they rescue this poor man from his morbid prison and take him in for the night. When the man awakes he has no recollection of who he is, where he came from or how he got there. For name's sake, the Noels decide to call him Michael until his memory returns. The only glimpse Michael has of his former life comes in dark vivid dreams, where the taste of blood arouses his senses, making him yearn for more from the mere pleasure of it. "Please, don't let that be true," he cries, when he awakes from one of these erotic yet horrifying nightmares. Caught between the growing love in his heart for this kind family, who have taken him in, and the cold yet longing desires taking over his nightmares that are hard to ignore! Will the Noel family, in fact, have a Merry Christmas? Or will their world be shattered, at the fate of their own doing, from taking in a stranger under the strangest of circumstances?
