

Trains, Peaks, and Tourists returns us to the golden age of Canadian travel, when the railway was king. Through the efforts of the CPR and its competitors, the wonders of Canada were introduced to its own people and to the multitudes of tourists from around the world. Between the completion of the CPR in 1885 and the waning of the golden age in the Great Depression, Canada became known to the world as a land of extraordinary landscapes, exciting recreational opportunities, and interesting people. Explore the railroad services, grand mountain resorts, advertising campaigns, and giants of our history that have left an indelible mark on what Canada is today.
